INTELLIGENCE MEMORANDUM

Soviet Military Deliveries To Cuba In 1970

Summary

Soviet deliveries of military equipment to Cuba in 1970 totaled 11,300 tons, about the same volume that was delivered in 1969. At least half of the eight ships participating in the 1970 deliveries carried missile-related (SA-2) equipment, and the remaining equipment identified was for the ground forces. Almost one-half of the 1970 tonnage was delivered in the last quarter, and a continuation of this rate would mean a higher volume of deliveries in 1971.
